

OH, FRANKLY, IN FACT, ACTUALLY, I MEAN, OKAY, LIKE, WELL, LIKE, WELL, LIKE, OKAY, SO, BASICALLY, ACTUALLY, LIKE, OH, YOU KNOW, I LIKE ITALIAN DISCOURSE GR Frankly PARTICLES IN A OKAY SO CROSS-LINGUISTIC LI Well PERSPECTIVE ACTU YOU KNOW, LIKE, YOU SEE, WELL, OH, I MEAN, SO, IN FACT, FRANKLY YOU SEE, OKAY, IN FACT, FRANKLY, ACTUALLY, LIKE, BASICALLY, WELL, LY, OH DR. CECILIA ANDORNO IN FACT TUALLY, WELL, IN FACT ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, I MEAN. FRANKLY, OKAY LL. BASICALLY LINGUISTICS AT THE UNIVERSITY OF TORINO OKAY, OH, Y SO, OH, LIKE, FRANKLY, WELL, OKAY, IN FACT, BASICALLY, YOU KNOW YOU KNOW 27 APR 2018 (FRI) 3:30 PM SO, FRANKI E, WELL CRT-4.34, CENTENNIAL CAMPUS, HKU BASICA OF, IN FACT, WELL, YOU KNOW, OH, BASICALLY, OKAY, SO, ACTUALLY

Discourse particles, such as well, now, you know, I mean, frankly, like, okay, etc., are words or phrases that manage the flow of speech and structure the discourse. Because of their pragmatic value, their function and their interlinguistic equivalents are not always easy to identify. As an example, the lecture discuss differences and similarities within discourse particles in the contiguous areas of affirmation, confirmation, agreement

Cecilia Andorno is an Associate Professor of Linguistics at the University of Torino (Italy). Her main fields of research are Spoken Language and Second Language Acquisition. She also coordinates and teaches training courses to teachers of Italian as second language. She is the co-author (with A. Valentini e R. Grassi) of "Verso una nuova lingua. Capire l'acquisizione di L2", (UTET Editore 2017) and co-edited (with A.M. De Cesare) "Focus on Additivity. Adverbial Modifiers in Romance, Germanic and Slavic languages" (Benjamins 2017)

